

What's in the Stars? April 2017 by Psychic Astrologer Aynne McAvoy

As I write this column, I've been watching April the pregnant giraffe for a little over 2 weeks now, and some of us are beginning to wonder if she is going to wait till April to have that baby! If the baby giraffe is a girl, I am going to vote to name it Aynne. What? It's a nice name?!

There are so many aspects happening the first 10 days of April that we may feel as though we are overwhelmed during this time with all the energies sparking around us.

April 1st of course is April Fools Day. We have some planets already in retrograde and more due to turn retrograde soon. This is probably not the year to punk someone with an April Fools gag. The results could be a bit cranky and possibly backfire.

On April 2, Venus will have retrograded itself back into Pisces, which will be a little more relaxed position than it was in Aries. You may want to take this opportunity for the next two weeks to try to mend some fences with a loved one while the aspect is in your favor.

On April 5, we see Mars in Taurus in an earth trine (pleasant aspect) Pluto in Capricorn at 19'. This is a good productive aspect to discuss a business venture with someone that can help you get it off the ground.

April 6 we will be watching Saturn (the stern taskmaster) in Sagittarius turning retrograde for the next five months. This is a bit of a rebellious aspect. Visualize a student being sent to detention for throwing paper wads in class.. They can either buckle down, due their homework during this time and reflect how they won't shoot paper wads in class anymore, or totally rebel with arms crossed and throw an attitude. Which will it be? The bigger the authority figure the more possibility of rebellion for the sake of rebellion. Instead, we can take this opportunity to make a solid plan for the future, as Saturn will be in trine (pleasant aspect) to Uranus (sudden unexpected happenings) for the next few months. These two planets can actually work together now to help bring out some much needed changes in your life, if you are willing to work with it. Due to the crazy nature of Uranus, opportunities may come crashing around the corner at us, with little time to see it coming. Saturn will be representing that detention room teacher, and Uranus will be representing an unforeseen opportunity presenting itself.

Our old buddy Mercury retrograde returns on April 9, lasting till May 3. This time Mercury is turning backwards through Taurus, then back into Aries. Try to have your taxes done prior to April 9 if at all possible.

Considering that Venus is still retrograde also, some of you might be having a problem "feeling the love", especially due to communications issues. As I mentioned last month, delay making any huge decisions about an important relationship until well into May if possible. Try not to sign any important papers now, on anything if possible. Mercury retrograde is classic for messing things up in a big way; especially having to do with communications or travel.

Easter Sunday arrives April 16 and Venus ends its retrograde motion indicating a pleasant holiday. The following day has a pleasant trine of the Sun in Aries and Saturn in Sagittarius. This is a great Monday to really get all those duckies lined up in a row and wind them up. The whole day is productive if you choose to take advantage of it.

April 20th finds us with Pluto turning retrograde also (what else is new this month??) Pluto (think intensity!) is currently in serious Capricorn and will be taking this retrograde very seriously. All retrogrades incorporate the RE words like redo, revisit, rethink, rework, etc. However, this time we are deep down serious and intense with our retrospection's. We have potential to be a whole new person by the time we reach the end of September. Once again, it's always about choice. Should you decide you don't like the current life plan now, change it. Go for it!
