

What's in the Stars? March 2017 by Psychic Astrologer Aynne McAvoy

The month begins with Venus in Aries moving into retrograde motion on March 4. This makes an already aggravating situation of some harsh aspects from late February even more challenging, with even fewer people "feeling' the love". However, we take the Venus retrograde as we do all retrogrades; a chance to review and reflect on how we really feel about things. There may be emotions that come bubbling to the surface that need to be addressed. While Venus is best known for ruling love, it also rules money. This is not the time to be investing into a new scheme, or opening a new business. Wait awhile to see how things pan out. This retrograde could bring about a new vision of an ongoing financial issue that needs to be more fairly determined.

Venus retrograde also affects your personal love life. This is not the time to make any rash decisions! Chances are very great that you may change your mind at the end of the retrograde period, and whatever you decided may be very difficult to undo by then. Give yourself until mid April, and possibly even mid May before making a final decision. What's a few weeks?

Just a few days ago on February 26 we had a solar eclipse at 8' Pisces. (See February's column for further details.) However, as you've all heard me say, an eclipse isn't in effect for during the hours of the eclipse itself but the effects are present for weeks before and weeks afterwards. Since I am writing this in early February, none of this has occurred yet. However, the stars are writing a distinct note of warning. I always tell you that eclipses reveal something that has been concealed. Whatever the action taken, it was preplanned. I think the events that will occur surrounding the date of that February 2017 eclipse will be long lasting.

Jupiter is also in retrograde motion right now in Libra and in opposition to Uranus in Aries all month. Jupiter of course is that happy go lucky planet we all adore. However in retrograde motion he is much more thoughtful and retrospect and during this opposition (challenge) to Uranus (sudden and unexpected events) we find things not quite so rosy as we would prefer.

Saturn in Sagittarius will be trine Mars in Aries (in the orb of influence) the first few weeks of March. Take advantage of that high octane energy to finally get something done that has been on the back burner for awhile.

Mars leaves Aries where it is most comfortable and aggressive and moves into the slow and steady sign of Taurus on March 9. I figure we are due a break after all the extreme energies sparking around the universe!

Our clocks spring ahead on March 12 as we indeed prepare for spring 8 days later. Mercury (planet of communication) moves into Aries (full steam ahead!) on March 14, so expect a huge rush in communications coming at you from all directions. Can you say overload? While you may enjoy an evening out on St Patrick's Day, you may also go home early due to the high level of noise going on around you.
