

As I write it is the day after Hurricane Irma slammed her way through my county here in Florida. Hubby and I were blessed to have gotten through with very little damage. Looks like lots of mess, but little damage. A lot of others here in my community not so lucky. We had a little boat ready just incase. We didn't need it, but lots here did. Maybe I should start to study weather astrology, as I know very little about that aspect!

Back to What's in the Stars for October 2017.

We have some news in that Jupiter, that great big happy go lucky planet, will be packing it's suitcase and moving into the sign of Scorpio for the next year or so. Remember that Jupiter always enlarges anything it comes in contact with, so we all will be more consumed with Scorpio type topics. Scorpio is the most intense sign and the most crisis centered. Scorpio likes to dig at things, to get to the bottom of something, burrowing into a situation and ferreting out information. Thus this new aspect Jupiter in Scorpio brings massive amounts of intensity. Try to remember the last time Jupiter entered Scorpio, November 2005. We had this placement throughout 2006. Can you recall what was going on in your life at that time? History and astrology often do repeat itself. Jupiter is like this huge magnifying glass - that combined with something else expands and expands!

These are also the last few days of the Jupiter in Libra in opposition to Uranus in Aries that has been going on for several months now. Once again you can see how the planet of expansion in opposition to the sign of balance was a major pull and tug in the astral sky. We've all been watching it for months now in our nightly news.

Mercury entered Libra in the last few days of September and our communications in general will be more based in compromise and peace keeping than they have been. This is certainly hopeful on the world stage. On October 3 we are looking at a trine (harmonious) between Venus in Virgo and Pluto in Capricorn. This is the day for that really serious talk that you've been putting off. You can get your point across now with more loving intent.

October 5 brings us a conjunction (intensity) between Mars (war) and Venus (peace) in Virgo. The Virgo piece of this will hopefully to keep everything into a more fact based level than emotional level. Hang onto that thought because three days later we are looking at Venus in Virgo square (challenging) Saturn in Sagittarius.

As we go bumping along into the month on Monday October 9 we see yet another power struggle happening with the Sun and Mercury in Libra vs Pluto in Capricorn. More pull and tug going on with the voices of reason verses the voices of stubbornness and intensity.

On Tuesday October 10 we see that Jupiter, that great big happy go lucky planet, will be packing it's suitcase and moving into the sign of Scorpio for the next year or so. Remember that Jupiter always enlarges anything it comes in contact with, so we all will be more consumed with Scorpio type topics. Scorpio is the most intense sign and the most crisis centered. Scorpio likes to dig at things, to get to the bottom of something, burrowing into a situation and ferreting out information. Thus this movement of Jupiter in Scorpio brings massive amounts of intensity. Try to remember the last time Jupiter entered Scorpio, November 2005. We had this placement throughout 2006. Can you recall what was going on in your life at that time? History and astrology often do repeat itself. Jupiter is like this huge magnifying glass - that combined with something else expands and expands!
